Description: Photographs of the sculptures on St. James's Park Underground station, two of each of the four winds, including Henry Moore's West Wind, 1928-1929 Portland stone. The locations on the building are given (Moore's work is on the north side of the east wing) and the total project is briefly surveyed. This article is preceded on pages 225-239 by an architectural feature on the whole building:
BAYER
Walter. Sense and sensibility: the new head offices of the Underground railway, Westminster, London (Adams, Holden and Pearson, Architects).
