Description
34 Sculptures 1929-1931 and 19 drawings. The introduction by Epstein is at once poetic and prophetic: Before these works I ponder in silence...robust expression of secret forces ready to burst forth on earth...a vision rich in sculptural invention... concentrating upon those enduring elements that constitute great sculpture...sculpture in England is without imagination or direction. Here in Henry Moore's works are both qualities...this sculpture is yet filled with the spirit of research and experiment. It contains the austere logic of ancient sculpture... For the future of sculpture in England Henry Moore is vitally important."
